government schemes or tailor-made savings accounts might help you to get there a little bit quicker.

Schemes and accounts to help you save a house deposit

Lifetime ISA

Replacing the now-defunct Help to Buy ISA, opening a Lifetime ISA will enable you to buy a property up to £450,000 when you use it to save your deposit. The government will top up your savings by 25% up to £4,000 per year, making this a great option for saving up to that amount. For example, if you put in £4,000 over the course of a year, you'll get a £1,000 top up, bringing your total to £5,000. This can only be used for a house deposit, or towards pension savings.

Shared Ownership

If you're struggling to save the deposit or afford the mortgage on 100% of a home, you can buy a share of between 25 and 75% of the property and pay rent on the rest. You can then buy a larger share of the property if and when you can afford it.

Equity Loan

This also gives you the option to reduce the deposit that you need and the amount of money you need to borrow
