1. Gold Coins/Bars

If you want to invest in physical gold, then consider investing in gold coins and bars, as they have:

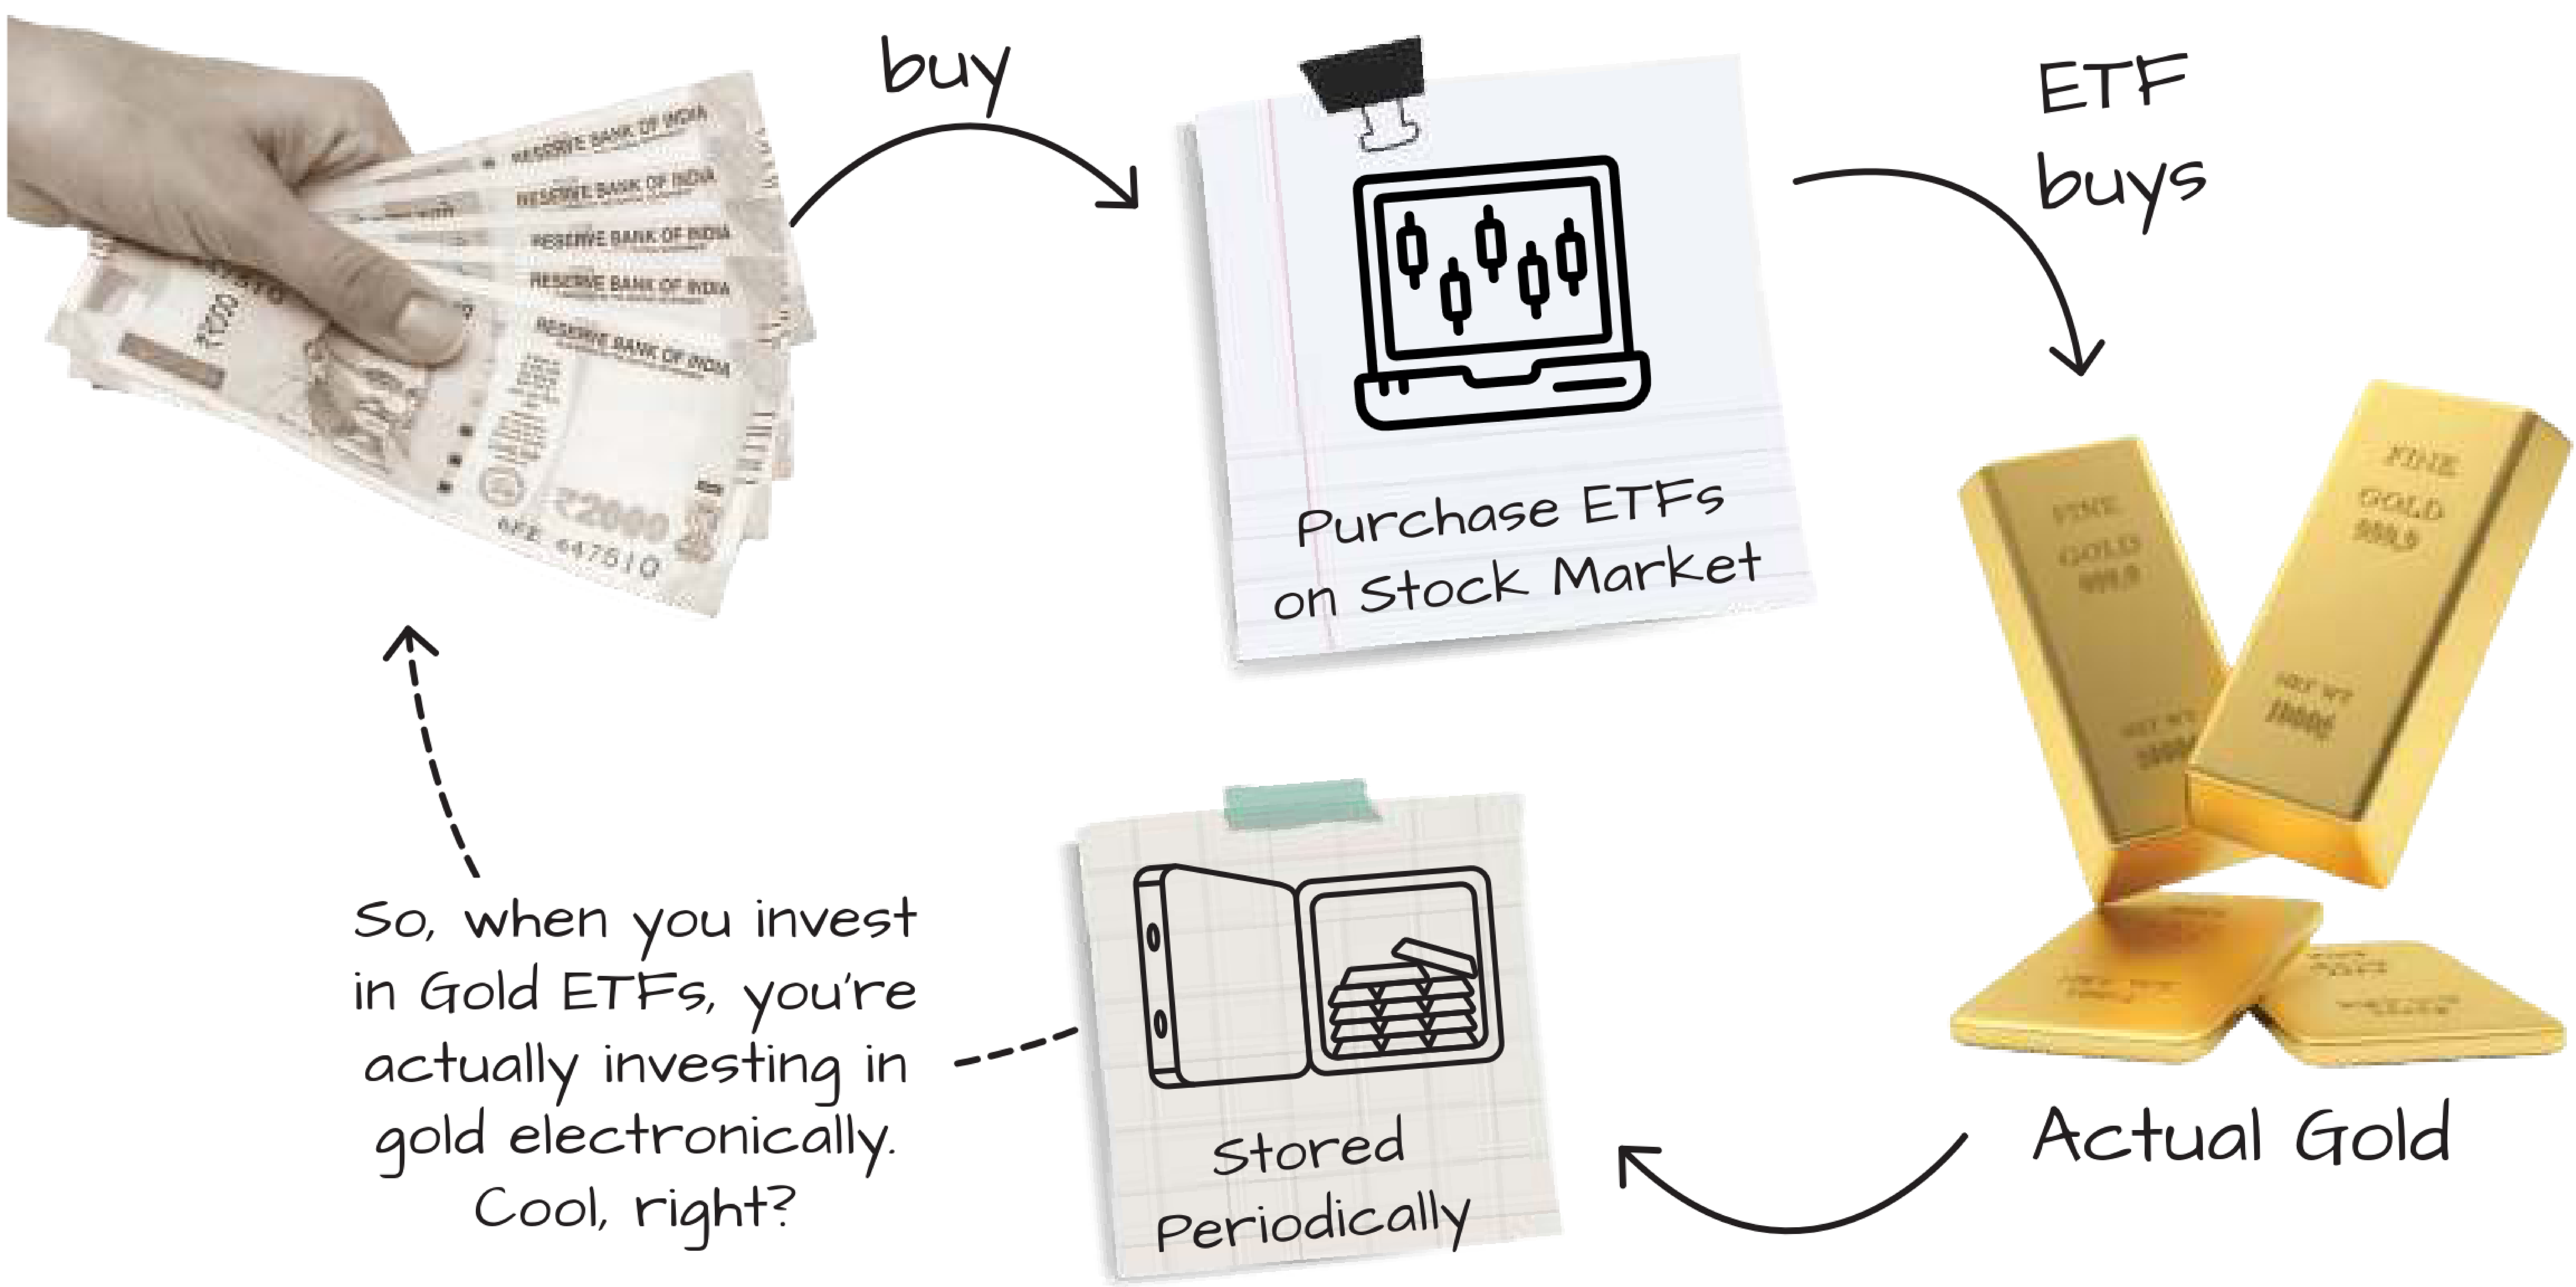
- Lower making charges as compared to jewellery
- It's way easier to store them

Remember to get it from a trusted jeweller.

2. Gold ETFs

We have discussed ETFs in the previous section. They're like mutual funds that are listed on the stock market. You can buy units of ETFs from the stock market just like you buy stocks.

Gold ETFs represent physical gold and aim to track the price of gold. Gold ETFs back their assets by buying actual physical gold of 99.5% purity. These are stored and valued periodically according to regulatory guidelines.



The best part is that you can get exposure to gold without having to deal with physical gold or the making charges that come with it. Plus, you can easily buy or sell Gold ETFs anytime on the stock market. Unlike gold jewellery, Gold ETFs can be bought and sold at the same price across India.
