

Now, it's time to answer the "million dollar" question. What is your current money and success blueprint, and what results is it subconsciously moving you toward? Are you set for success, mediocrity, or financial failure? Are you programmed for struggle or for ease around money? Are you set for working hard for your money or working in balance?

Are you conditioned for having a consistent income or an inconsistent income? You know the scoop: "First you have it, then you don't, then you have it, then you don't." It always appears as though the reasons for these drastic fluctuations come from the outside
