

the way rich people think is to know how rich people think.

Rich people think very differently from poor and middle-class people. They think differently about money, wealth, themselves, other people, and pretty well every other facet of life. In Part II of this book, we're going to examine some of these differences and, as part of your reconditioning, install seventeen alternative "wealth files" into your mind. With new files come new choices. You can then catch yourself when you are thinking like poor and middle-class people and consciously shift your focus to how rich people think. Remember, you can choose to think
