

You have to believe that you are the one who creates your success, that you are the one who creates your mediocrity, and that you are the one creating your struggle around money and success. Consciously or unconsciously, it's still you.

Instead of taking responsibility for what's going on in their lives, poor people choose to play the role of the victim. A victim's predominant thought is often "poor me." So presto, by virtue of the law of intention, that's literally what victims get: they get to be "poor."

Notice that I said they play the role of victim. I didn't say they are victims. I don't believe anyone is a
