

Once activated, you'll see the environment name in your terminal prompt, indicating that you're now working within the isolated environment.