

Image 4.15 – Price Acceptance in TCS

The above image is a 15-min chart of TCS in the first week of June in 2021. There is a clear resistance trend line, and price took resistance many times at this trend line.

But on 7th June, suddenly the price started consolidating just below the resistance trend line and spent more time here. It indicates the absence of sellers or the absence of significant selling quantity to push the price downside (short buildup). The higher the time it consolidates in this area, there is a higher probability of breakout of the resistance line. This concept is recognized as 'Price Acceptance.'
