

stolen or damaged while you're traveling. Some cards even come with roadside assistance.

- ° Scour reviews for cards, just as you would for buying a car or a mattress or a video game console.
- ° Decide if a credit card is for you at all. If, like a younger Gaby, you can't stop yourself from spending "imaginary" money, then credit cards might not be right for you yet. I'm still not great at this and regularly build up credit card debt that I have to work to pay down. I've accepted that this might just be never-ending for me. Old habits die hard. But awareness of that is a good percent of the battle.
