

Heat the oil in a heavy-based frying pan over medium-high heat. When hot, add the burgers and flatten them slightly. Fry them for 8–10 minutes (turning occasionally) until well crusted and browned.

Put a slice of Swiss cheese on top of each burger and cook for 1 minute until the cheese starts to melt. Transfer the burgers to a plate and cover with foil to keep warm.

Step 3: Cook the onions

Add the sliced onion to the pan and cook for 4–5 minutes (stirring occasionally) until tender and brown. Put them in a bowl and cover with foil to keep warm.

Step 4: Prepare the buns

Turn on the griller. Slice the buns in half. Lightly toast the cut side of the buns in the griller.

Step 5: Serve and eat!

Spread mayonnaise on the toasted side of each burger bun. On each of the four bottom buns, put some pickle, then the burger, lettuce, tomato and onions. Close the buns and serve immediately.

Alternatively, lay the ingredients out on a platter and let the family assemble their own burgers.

NOTES

- Feel free to make this recipe your own—add whatever takes your fancy, like a fried egg or crispy bacon, and don't forget the sliced beetroot. And the tomato sauce. (Scott adds sauce to everything.)
- This recipe is great for leftovers. You could ditch the buns and serve the burgers with steamed veggies or salad—cauliflower, broccoli, carrot, green beans, baby spinach, rocket . . .
- Form the meat mixture into meatballs and cook in the frying pan before adding a jar of tomato pasta sauce or a can of chopped tomatoes. Warm through and serve with spaghetti and top with grated parmesan.
