

By getting a job, your teen will be forced to overwrite the negative stories inside their head with genuine, tangible, positive ones—which will hugely impact the rest of their life.

What's more, they are going to remember that it was you who helped them do this, and you who believed in them.

But this is just the beginning.

In the next chapter you're going to celebrate all your hard work.

Yet you'll also show them that now they've got the job, it's not time to slack off.

It's time to channel their inner Barefoot Betty.

