

Uncle Scott's $453 329 gift

I told you I tracked down some low-cost funds. Here's how I did it. I called up a superannuation fund research house and asked them, 'What are the cheapest super share funds in Australia?' I also asked them to divide the shares 50 per cent Aussie shares and 50 per cent international shares (a good investment mix).

They found that the cheapest super share funds (30 June 2018) were:

1. Hostplus

International Shares—Indexed

IFM—Australian Shares

Total investment fees are 0.13 per cent p.a, plus $78 per year.

2. Sunsuper

Australian Shares—Index

International Shares—Index (hedged)

Total investment fees are 0.19 per cent p.a, plus $78 per year.

3. First State Super

Australian Equities

International Equities

Total investment fees are 0.23 per cent p.a, plus $52 per year.

4. Media Super

Passive Australian Shares

Passive International Shares

Total investment fees are 0.24 per cent p.a., plus $65 per year.

And then there is the 'I Can't Be Arsed Switching Super' fund . . .

Switching all sounds too much trouble? Or you can't switch? Just go with the high-growth option in your default fund. (Call the fund and ask
