

Money Meal ‘shopping list’

Hi parents—I’m back to you now.

It’s time to get ready for the Money Meal.

Here’s what you’ll need:

- Your kid’s HR contact (phone or email), to check whether they can choose their own super.
- Their default fund’s Product Disclosure Statement (PDS) from their website, to see what investment options they offer.
- Any PDS of the low-cost funds that SuperRatings mentioned, along with other super funds you’ve researched yourself.
- If the miracle of compound interest has sparked your teen’s curiosity in investing, by all means fan those flames. The quickest way to get them investing is with an app like Raiz Kids raizinvest.com.au where you can kickstart a share portfolio with a few bucks.

BAREFOOT MONEY MEAL

THE $453,329 GIFT

Announce to your kid before dinner that tonight’s a special night, so you’re going out . . . for tacos.

ENTRÉE:

As your teen is scoffing the salsa, explain that unlike you, they have the opportunity to get it right from the start, and end up very, very rich . . . with one simple set-and-forget choice now. Get them to read about the miracle of compound interest on page (or summarise the info for them).
