

- how high interest rates were back then?

Then, do payday (three minutes is all it takes!).

Everyone pitches in and does the dishes.

Now you're climbing!

Congratulations!

One of the biggest questions parents ask me is how they should save for their kids.

Well, you now know exactly what you should be doing. And in just one night, you've kicked off a set-and-forget investment plan that's going to help you give your kids a head start in life—without turning them into Donald Trump Junior (or Senior).

What's more, your kid's taken the powerful step of opening up a savings account for their first home . . . which instantly puts them ahead of 99 per cent of young people (who would rather whine about it).

But tonight is bigger than that.

By completing this Money Meal, you've officially completed the Barefoot Ten.

Just by following the simple steps in this book . . . and having a handful of specific, memorable moments . . . you've equipped your child to handle absolutely anything life throws at them.

And that is worth celebrating!
