

CHEERS!

- You've given them a powerful reputation to live up to. Getting them to be your chief 'negotiator' for household bills, and having them pack a zero-fee, high-interest savings account in their purse, has systematically built up their financial confidence. And because of you, they'll never, ever fall into the debt trap. You've ingrained 'I am good with money' into their belief system.

CHEERS!

- You've set them up in a high-growth, low-cost super fund from their very first day of work. That alone will add hundreds of thousands of dollars to their retirement balance and it'll look after them (and your grandchildren) long after you're gone. That is HUGE.

CHEERS!

- And they're stepping out into the world with one very specific, life-changing financial goal: to buy their own home. Better yet, they've got you holding their ladder as they step up to financial security.

CHEERS!

Oh, and one more thing . . .

As you return from your Victory Dinner, please tell me what victory felt like. Brag to me about your kids. Let me know how your Barefoot Ten worked out for them. Email me: scott@barefootinvestor.com