

Three Jobs

The lesson we want to teach our kids can be summed up in four words:

‘Money comes from working.’

Sounds straightforward, right?

And that’s why the foundation of almost every book about kids and money is to track chores and pay money.

There’s only one, teeny, weeny problem . . .

If you’ve ever googled ways to teach your kid about pocket money, you’ll have run into a ‘chore chart’ that looks something like this:

Nothing works unless YOU DO	M	Tu	W	Th	F	Sa	Su
Make Bed 🛏
Get dressed 👕
Prayers 🙏
Clean Room 🗑
Put clothes away 👢
Clean Teeth 😊
Feed Cat 🐱
Shower 🚿
Healthy Meals 🥕
School Work 🎓
Pick Up 🧺
Piano 🎹
Attitude 😊

If you’re not feeling heart palpitations looking at this chart, you’re not a parent.

It has 91 chores to mark off during the week (13 every day for seven days).

Ninety. One. Separate. Things.

The mind boggles.
