

We live on a farm, so there's always plenty to do: rounding up sheep, feeding the chooks, collecting firewood (I make no apologies for being the Steve Irwin of pocket money).

Your kids may not live on the land, but they do have a home. So put them to work!

Something like:

1. Clean out the car once a week (family cars are a cesspool of half-eaten Cruskits, old coffee cups and festy coins).
2. Put the bins out each week, and bring them back in.
3. Do basic yardwork, sweeping, or feeding pets.

Older teens (age 15 and over)

