

- Standard and Poors/Case-Shiller U.S. National Home Price index, 6
- Statman, Meir, 3, 5, 8, 9, 13, 52, 69, 77–81, 200, 246–247
- status quo bias
- advice, 227–228
 - behaviors of, relating to investment mistakes, 225
 - case study example, 258–59
 - description, 223–224
 - diagnostic testing, 226–228
 - practical application, 224–225
 - research review, 225
- storytelling, 114
- straight arrow investor personality type, 38–39, 294–6
- Sunstein, Cass, 7, 8
- tech bubble (1990s), 163
- technical analysis, 13, 16
- technical anomalies, 14
- Test for active or passive traits, 298
- Thaler, Richard H., 5, 6–7, 119, 140, 152, 153, 195, 213, 232
- The Theory of Moral Sentiments* (Smith), 24–25
- Theory of Political Economy* (Jevons), 26
- Thoreau, Henry David, 273
- Thurstone, Louis Leon, 28–29
- time diversification, 91–92
- total returns, as major priority, 131
- trading frequency, 149, 50, 159, 203
- transaction cost aversion, 226, 228, 234, 240
- Turn-of-the-Month Effect, 16
- Tversky, Amos, 10, 31, 33–34, 50, 89, 120–21, 147, 156, 191
- uncertainty, decision making under, 30–32, 174
- underdiversification, 123–168, 208, 224, 319
- utility theory, 25–26
- Valkanov, Rossen, 158
- value function, 34–35, 192–3
- value investing, 15
- Veblen, Thorstein, 27
- Vishny, Robert, 67–69
- Walras, Leon, 26
- Walster, Elaine, 176
- wealth, division into three mental accounts, 132
- What Works on Wall Street* (O'Shaughnessy), 15
- willingness to accept, 139, 141
- willingness to pay, 231–2
- winners
- holding too long, 193
 - selling too early, 160–1
- Zeckhauser, Richard, 141, 225–233
- Ziemba, William, 16–17, 223