

castable, a stock-bond yield ratio, inserted into a multiple variable correlation analysis, gives a truer weighting to the other variables of earnings, assets, dividends, and price lag. The nonpredictable variable (stock-bond yield ratio) can then be held constant, and a projection of the predictable variables in the equation can be made with greater assurance that they will reveal the true value of the stock, ex sentiment.