

too far from where I have already invested, so I asked him if he wanted to .pick another city. He said no

Within five minutes I had found a 4-bedroomed property in the centre of Telford that lent itself well to a multi-let. It was advertised with an online agency at £90,000 and after doing some research it was clear that the real value was at least £95,000. It was very close to the centre and the rent would be £350 per room, totalling £1,400. It would need some fire doors, a
.smoke alarm and paint

I didn't have time to go to the property but did have pictures and an address. We all went through this property and it ticked every box to be a HMO and
.Bill was amazed, but a little sceptical

,He asked

How do I know it would rent out for £1,400? It just seems too good to be“
”.true

We made a dummy advert for the property online and moved on with the seminar. By the end of the two-day programme we checked the progress. We had three people within 24 hours asking for a viewing. At this point Bill
.was sure it would work

I later had to tell the prospective tenants that the property was not ready and passed them to another landlord in the area who was very pleased with me, but what an incredible lesson for all the students there. I could see them all in the coffee breaks on their iPhones looking for similar deals where they lived. Four months later, I had an email from Bill. Since the Crash Course,
