

see if they deliver as promised. Over time, you will be able to build a strong
.and trusted relationship with sourcers and do more and more deals

There are other ways to become well acquainted with them though without having to buy through them straight away. For example, let them know your exact criteria and show them your proof of deposit. This is always a good .way to remain high on their radar

If I've found a super good deal, I'll usually pass it to the people with whom I most network, those who have bought from me before, those who have just attended one of my training sessions, those who I know are in a .position to buy, or simply people who are well connected with me

Power teams

Your power team should include a mortgage broker, estate agent, solicitor,
.accountant, workmen and overseers, and a good letting agent

The most important people in your power team are the letting agents.
Managing bad letting agents can be as bad as managing tenants. I am happy to plug people into my power teams if they are investing in the Midlands,
.especially if I have helped find the property

Invest in yourself

Property is the second best thing to invest in; the best thing is yourself. I would much rather have my property portfolio taken away from me than my knowledge. There is a pattern you will always find amongst successful people – they invest in themselves and are always learning new things about their industry. I continue to be around people who are smarter than
