

At times your new life will seem unimportant. But you'll feel better if you:

Remember that work was just talking on the phone (chapter 3)

When you retire, you:

Modify your work ethic (chapter 3)
Live without guilt (chapter 3)

To keep from doing something stupid:

Make a clean break (chapter 7)

from your old job, and:

Avoid major purchases for two years (chapter 7)

After the transition period:

Go back to work if you feel like it (chapter 7)

If you retire with kids (chapter 9), you need more than $400,000 to $500,000 of net worth. How much more depends on how many kids you have and how old they are. To raise a child costs about $4,000 a year.

If you don't have enough money to retire (chapter 10), you need to work to build your net worth. You should:

Manage your career (chapter 10)
Control your spending (chapter 10)
Set up a savings routine (chapter 10)
Start a high-risk/low-risk investment program (chapter 10)

If you opt for bare-bones retirement (chapter 11), with a net worth of $100,000 or so, you should:
