

Because I get 45 cents in perpetuity, the checks keep on coming—to me and to them. And because they got the money they needed, Tracey and Dani were able to open up a storefront in Faneuil Hall this summer. That's premium real estate in Boston; every tourist winds up there eventually. Now there are people in New Hampshire who want to franchise Wicked Good Cupcakes because it's enjoying such phenomenal success!

I don't know how or when it started, but my television nickname is "Mr. Wonderful." I knew things had started to get a little crazy when I was met by a driver holding this sign at Los Angeles International Airport.