

Dividends Earned _____
Employment Insurance _____
Annuities _____
Inheritances _____
Other _____
Other _____
Other _____

Your 90-Day Input Number _____

Now write down all the stuff you and your partner spend money on. I'm not just talking about your rent, mortgage payment, utilities, insurance and other big-ticket items. I mean every coffee and bag of chips you've bought over the last 90 days. Haircuts, magazines, donations, gasoline, groceries, dinners out, travel expenses, smart phone apps, valet parking, that sleek new pair of shoes—every single thing. If you keep your checkbook balanced, perfect: use it to track your expenditures. Don't leave anything out. The more honest the two of you are, the more you stand to gain from this exercise.

90-DAY OUTPUT

Rent/Mortgage Payments _____
Condo Fees/Property Taxes _____
Home Repair/Upkeep _____
Child Care _____
Dependent Care _____
Education _____
Alimony _____
Veterinarian _____
Health Care (medical) _____
Health Care (dental) _____
Prescriptions _____
Health Insurance _____
Gym _____
Cosmetics _____
Personal Care (salon/spa/yoga) _____