Legal Considerations: Choosing the Right Legal Structure

Choosing the right legal structure is one of the most crucial decisions when starting a consulting business. This decision will have far-reaching implications for your business operations, tax liabilities, personal asset protection, and the overall growth trajectory of your venture. Before selecting a legal structure, it's essential to understand the consulting segment you want to operate in and the associated dynamics.

This decision will have far-reaching implications for your:

Business Operations

Tax
Liabilities

Personal Asset Protection

Overall growth trajectory of your venue

At the highest tier are the elite strategy firms like McKinsey, Boston Consulting Group (BCG), and Bain & Company, collectively known as the “MBB” firms. These firms command premium service pricing and typically work on large, transformative projects with budgets over 20 crores.

Just below the MBB firms are prestigious management consulting companies like Kearney and the “Big 4” accounting firms (Deloitte, PwC, EY, and KPMG), which handle strategic projects in the 10-20 crore range.

NOTE: These numbers are just indicative because Big 4 also work in the MBB space. The billing rates decide the size of the deal.
