

Business Registration, Licenses, and Permits

It is imperative to appropriately register your consulting firm with the relevant government agencies, regardless of your business's legal structure. This process typically involves obtaining a business license, registering your business name, and fulfilling industry-specific licensing or permit requirements.

Obtaining a business license

Registering your business name

Fulfilling industry-
specific licensing or permit requirements

Failure to comply with registration and licensing requirements can result in fines, legal penalties, and potential operational disruptions. Researching and understanding the specific regulations and requirements in your local jurisdiction and consulting industry is crucial.