

Enhancing Data-Driven Recommendations for Clients

The ability to generate actionable insights from large datasets is only the first step in leveraging AI for data-driven decision-making in consulting. Consultants must communicate these insights effectively and translate them into practical, data-driven client recommendations.

The following are critical ways in which AI can enhance data-driven recommendations for clients:

