

3.1

Introduction & Importance

Spreadsheets are one of the most important tools for consultants. This is because a big part of a consultant's job involves dealing with lots of data - both numbers (quantitative data) and non-numbers (qualitative data). Let's first understand what quantitative and qualitative data mean with some examples: