

stick to their budgets; I said they still do! That means you never outgrow the need for a budget, even after you become a millionaire. In fact, I'd argue that the more money you have, the greater your responsibility is to manage it well. Losing $1,000 due to sloppy spending is bad enough; I don't even want to think about losing $100,000 just because I was too lazy to manage it.