

and the others (14, but check my math) break out downward. However, the sample size is too small to make a definitive statement.