

high, quietly disclosing that the double top turned out to be false (it never confirmed as a valid chart pattern).

“When the stock passed $13 in mid-April, I started to pay attention. It reached 13.25 and backed off for a bit, sinking to a low of 11.13. Then it spurted up again. I drew a trendline upward following the latest move and when price pierced the line, I got my broker on the blower.” John sold at 13.63, not close to the high of 15.88, but “close enough for government work.” After commissions, he made 108% in slightly less than 8 months.
