

Figure 59.1 Three descending scallops appear in a declining price trend. Not...

Figure 59.2 Four consecutive descending scallops.

Figure 59.3 Overhead resistance causes the July scallop to stall and eventua...

Figure 59.4 This scallop fails to descend far after a downward breakout. Not...

Figure 59.5 This trade ended in a loss.

Figure 59.6 This descending scallop acts as a reversal of the upward price t...

Chapter 60

Figure 60.1 A descending and inverted scallop appears as an upside-down J.

Figure 60.2 B and C mark the beginning and end of the scallop, not A or D.

Figure 60.3 A pattern failure: Price at A should be well above B.

Figure 60.4 As described in the Sample Trade, Rich shorted this stock and a ...

Chapter 61

Figure 61.1 The three falling peaks chart pattern begins with the highest pe...

Figure 61.2 Peaks A1, A2, and A3 form three falling peaks, as do B1, B2, and...

Figure 61.3 Which of these patterns is a valid three falling peaks chart pat...

Figure 61.4 After declining just 2% below point D, the stock rallies 58% fro...

Figure 61.5 This busted three falling peaks pattern resulted in a sale just ...