

term hold, he sold way too early. The stock drifted down for a month but then continued higher.

The rise at G was earnings related (the company announced first-quarter results). Notice the trend, how price peaks quickly (7–10 days), retraces for a month, and then moves higher at a more sedate pace over many months. You may notice this behavior in other stocks related to the announcement of surprisingly good earnings. They can make for profitable trades, both swing trades like Jacob's and longer-term holds.
