

Although debt forgiveness will usually result in taxable income to the debtor, federal income tax law will specifically exclude the debt forgiveness if:

1. The house is your principal residence
2. The mortgage was used to purchase build or substantially improve the residence
3. The loan did not exceed $2 million