

don't have great credit. Financing through the dealer opens you up to the risk of their "shifting" costs around.

Don't make your decision based on the monthly payment alone. The price of the car, the length of the loan, and the APR influence the payment. You could have what seems like an affordable monthly payment but end up paying far too much for the car by the time you pay it off.