

With streaming sites, subscription services, and special bundles popping up all over the place, it's easier than ever to say goodbye to cable, or at least find a better deal on your current package. Remember, prices and promotions may vary depending on the area you live in, and streaming sites, satellite services, and antennas are not always reliable in rural parts of the country, but it's worth experimenting to find the best entertainment option for your family.

We currently use an antenna for basic channels, Sling TV, and a Hulu subscription. With all three, we've never had to miss a favorite show, and I love that I can watch HGTV or Food Network episodes any time I want. This saves us approximately $387 per year over a regular cable subscription, and I couldn't be happier with the variety of entertainment we have at our fingertips!
