

Although I haven't specifically talked about dental or eye care services in this chapter, many of these principles can still be applied. The only other thing I would mention is not to discount a local dentistry or optometry school. Sometimes services are offered at 50% of the normal rates. Contacts and glasses can also be bought cheaper through a store like Walmart or Costco, rather than a private office.

I hope you don't think I'm completely anti-doctor, because I am definitely not! You don't have to avoid the doctor's office if you truly need it, but at least now you know how to make your dollars work a little harder when you do.
