

DAY 23: FIND CLOTHES FOR LESS

I'm not a fashionista by any means, but just like my hair, the right clothes can make or break my confidence. I don't know about you, but I feel so much better when I'm wearing a cute outfit that flatters, rather than something that doesn't fit or look right!

While I would love to splurge on a whole new wardrobe, my frugal nature rebels against paying any more than I have to for a new blouse, skinny jeans, or pair of heels. And if I'm being really honest, I'd much rather spend my money on books or a couple home improvement projects to make my house look just a little bit nicer. Because...well, those are simply my priorities right now.

But I'm certainly not opposed to adding a few extra pieces to my closet every now and then, especially now that I've learned how to snag quality items without ever paying full price. I've also changed my buying habits to reflect more of my own style and rely on the brands I love and trust. This alone has saved me from many cases of retail regret, which saves me even more time and money in the long run!

Whether you need a couple new items for yourself, your family is growing out of their clothes faster than you can shop, or you just want to treat yourself to a day at the mall without the guilt, here are five practical tips to remember before you buy. It's time to build a wardrobe you love, and finally achieve that look you want for much less!

1. GET CREATIVE WITH WHAT YOU ALREADY HAVE

It always surprises me how creative I can be with pieces I already have hanging in my closet or stuffed in the back of my dresser drawers. It takes just a little effort to put together, but I've found some new favorite outfits just by stepping outside my comfort zone and pairing items I never would have thought to pair before!
