2. USE COUPONS AND MEMBER DISCOUNTS

No matter what attraction you'll be visiting, check each business's website or Facebook page for coupons. Joseph and I recently saved $2 on an entrance fee to a local pumpkin festival just by showing a photo of their Facebook promotion on our phones when we arrived.

Groupon and LivingSocial are two other coupon-oriented websites that offer deals on local attractions, sometimes up to 80% off. Bookmark and visit those sites regularly to see what coupons are available. How it works is you buy the pass or service at a discounted rate, then present your Groupon receipt at the ticket counter or gate.

Likewise, if you're a student, teacher, military member, or belong to AAA or AARP, ask if there is a discount off ticket prices or entrance fees for showing your card. It's amazing all the discounts you can get just by being part of an affiliation or specific club.

READER TIP:

I found out last year that outside food is allowed at the Rogers Centre (where our beloved Blue Jays play) so I've been bringing my own snacks. I can't believe how many times I've bought into their $7 popcorn!

3. BE SMART AT THEME PARKS

If you live close enough to a theme park, zoo, or museum, you might benefit from purchasing an annual pass, especially if you have kids and would like to visit at least twice a year. Last time we were at Busch Gardens, a day pass was $90 a person, and Disney World just increased
