

- For TV Shows – Netflix and Hulu come in at the top again, although Sling TV is another great alternative for live TV channels that don't require a cable package.
- For Music – I'm a pretty big Pandora fan, but you'll want to check out AccuRadio and Spotify too. All are free—you just have to be prepared for a few ads here and there. Amazon Prime will also allow you to download your own music for as long as you are a member.

If you do stumble across a less than stellar site, your #1 priority is to be careful! Many freebie sites have malware embedded in them and inappropriate ads that pop up all over your screen. It's best to leave those alone so you are completely protected.

7. ENTERTAIN YOURSELF AT HOME

The word entertainment does not automatically mean a day or night out. We have just as much fun playing a family board game, doing a puzzle together, listening to podcasts, or watching a rented movie with homemade popcorn on the stove.

Take it a step further and host a cookout in your backyard, or a fun picnic on the living room floor. The possibilities are endless if you take the time to be a little creative!
