

the equivalent of a $47,500 annualized return, or a 1,500 percent gain on my investment. Actually, my gain was closer to 2,000 percent, but I'd rather be modest than exaggerate.

Measuring my success against the disappointing stories I heard from professional traders, I'd have to say I made a killing in commodities. I'd gladly volunteer for one of those TV ads, as long as they mentioned my Useful Tip Number 20:

Past performance improves with age
