own, here are the investment themes we are working with in 1996 that should have several years of life left in them.

THE REBUILDING OF A CRUMBLING GLOBAL INFRASTRUCTURE

Business activity has been growing rapidly in a newly free-market-oriented world, but the systems that support it have not kept pace. The world needs more electric power plants, highways, bridges, airports, communications systems, and pollution controls. Stocks of engineering, construction, and equipment companies are the obvious choice. Terry Hogan in our offices found Thermo Electron, which makes products that reduce pollution and modernize plants, and AES China Generating, a U.S. company building electrical generating plants in China.

THE EXPANSION OF WORLD COMMUNICATIONS NETWORKS

A company can now have a branch in Sri Lanka and manage it almost as efficiently as if it were in Atlanta. Cheap, fast communications and transportation have created the globalization you are probably sick of hearing about, but it's all true and can only continue. Expeditors, an airfreight forwarding company, has been a great investment.

THE BUSINESS OF LEISURE

America leads the world in leisure. Maybe we don't work as hard as the Japanese and aren't as thrifty as the Swiss, but we party great. Disney could not have been invented in any other country. Fun is a very serious business.

I've owned broadcasting, movie chain, and shopping center stocks, but the one that's been a key position for some time has been Carnival Corporation. The cruise vacations it offers are very appealing: Your decisions are made for you and your costs are con-
