

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The Wave Principle is best communicated visually. To that end, we required reliable long-term charts. Two of the best services for providing graphical representations of economic and market data are Ned Davis Research, Nokomis, FL and Ed Hyman's ISI Group, New York, NY. We are grateful to them, first, for meticulously tending to the record of where the markets and business conditions have been and then for graciously sharing that record with those of us who are trying to figure out where it is headed. Both services supplied several charts in this book and valuable assistance in marshaling the data. Richard Moge of the Foundation for the Study of Cycles, Wayne, PA, dug deep into the Foundation's historical archives and offered several centuries of commodity and stock time series, as well as insights into economic and market conditions as far back as the 1720s. John Carder of Topline Investment Graphics, Boulder, CO, furnished us with a number of charts and helped us insure accuracy by double checking numerous time and price points. John's company is another excellent source of data that we highly recommend.

Additional information and assistance was contributed by the following people and companies: American Institute for Economic Research, Great Barrington, MA; Martin Armstrong, Princeton Economics Institute, Princeton, NJ; The Bank Credit Analyst, Montreal, QB; Barclays Trading Group, Fairfield, IA; Jim Bianco, Arbor Trading, Barrington, IL; Bridgewater Group, Wilton, CT; Coin World, Sydney, OH; The Conference Board, New York, NY; James Dines, The Dines Letter, San Francisco, CA; Eagledata, Indianapolis, IN; Peter Eliades, Stockmarket Cycles, Santa Rosa, CA; the Federal Reserve Board, Washington DC; Grant's Interest Rate Observer, New York, NY; Investment Co. Institute, Washington, DC; Lipper Analytical Services, New York, NY; Paul Macrae Montgomery, Legg Mason, Newport News, VA; Ian McAvity, Deliberations on World Markets, Tucson, AZ; Moody's Investor Service, New York, NY; National Association of Real Estate Investment Trusts, Washington DC; National Bureau of Economic Research, New York, NY; Numismatic News, Iola, WI; Craig Peskin, Merrill Lynch Market Analysis, New York, NY; Securities Data Corp., New York, NY; Al