

2. Request Reimbursement

The employee can request for reimbursement of the expenses made. You may define the frequency for claiming these expenses. The reimbursement request should be supported by the bills.

3. Reimbursement Approval

You may decide to keep the approval process to validate the reimbursement requests. The manager can validate the reason for making an expense.

4. Payment

The payment is made for the approved amount. Some organizations check all the bills before making the payment, while others select a random sample. In some cases, organizations may even eliminate the approval process. You may choose the plan you want to implement as per the culture of the organization.