

Exit Reasons

The employees may exit your organization for several personal or professional reasons. You may broadly classify exits in three buckets.

1. Voluntary Exit

The employee voluntarily decides to end the employment contract by informing the employer in advance as per the notice period clause stated in the appointment letter. The employee initiates the voluntary exit by submitting a resignation. The reason for voluntary exit could be any of the 3Ps:

- a. Professional growth - Better job opportunities or further studies.
- b. Personal issues - Sickness, relocation, or family reasons.
- c. Painful experience - Issues with the job, manager or culture.
