

b. Layoff or Retrenchment -

Layoff is a temporary suspension of employment due to lack of work or financial issues.

Retrenchment is permanent termination of services for economic slowdown or restructuring.

You must provide notice and compensation to workers as per ID Act. You must take prior approvals from government authorities before initiating the process. There are provisions that state that workers with less service should be retrenched first.

c. Strikes and Lockouts -

STRIKES

Strike is stoppage of work by employees. It is a fundamental right of employees under the Indian constitution.

Strike is a tool for employees to raise their voice against organization policies or practices, including wages, benefits or working conditions. A group of employees must give a 14-day notice in advance with their demands before proceeding with a strike.

LOCKOUTS

Lockout is a temporary closure of work by the organization restricting employees not to enter the workplace.

Similarly organizations must give a 14-day notice to government authorities and the union, outlining the requirements for a lockout.
