b. Developing people inside (Career Planning).

We have already studied these processes in first two books of the book series. These processes contribute to succession planning. They are not succession planning. The succession planning is a proactive approach to ensure that your critical positions are never left vacant. According to a survey, 53% of organizations did not have a contingency plan in place, even for the CEO.

The partnership firms excel in succession planning. Each partner decides on the successor in the firm and takes out insurance in the name of the successor. In the event that a partner passes away, then the successor can use the insurance money to purchase the partner's stake.

The succession planning process is a no brainer.
