

Reasons for Death

There are three primary reasons for death. The reasons are

- a. Accidents - due to injuries of fall, electric shock, road accident or drowning.
- b. Health conditions - due to cancer, cardiovascular or respiratory diseases.
- c. Suicide - due to mental health issues or stress.

These reasons are important as the benefits passed on to the family members change based on the reason of death.

Death Benefits

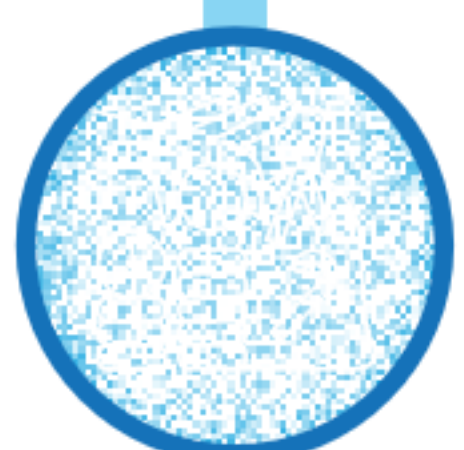

In case of death, following benefits are passed on to the nominee declared by the employee. First four benefits are paid to all the employees irrespective of the reason of death.

1. Full and Final Settlement - It includes salary payable to the employee.

2. Gratuity - It is calculated based on length of service and last drawn salary.

3. Provident Fund - It includes the accumulated PF amount.

4. ESI - It includes funeral expenses, medical benefits and pension.

5. Life Insurance - The sum assured is paid in all cases except suicide.

6. Accident Insurance - The sum assured is paid in case of any accident.

7. Compensation - It is paid under the workmen's compensation act in case of accidents on duty.