

Suppose you hire a new employee.

EXIT

After three weeks the employee wants to leave.

1 week

2 week

3 week

Bad Hire

You may think that the employee is unable to adjust to the environment and label them as a bad hire. Think for a moment. Perhaps the employee is good and the problem is with the work environment.

Would you like to know the problem that is causing attrition of good employees from the organization?

The solution is simple. Start Listening. Start listening to grievances of the people.

Grievance

A grievance is a formal complaint made by an employee. The complaint can be about any issues related to the workplace, including policy violations, mistreatment or working conditions. It does not matter whether the grievance is valid or not. You need to invest time in comprehending the concern and work towards a logical conclusion that satisfies the employee. According to the “Making Business Better” survey, the biggest challenge faced by the HR professionals is dealing with disciplinary issues and grievances.

Resolved Grievances

Grievance Box