Suppose, you are going on a road in your vehicle. You see a red signal. What will you do?

Most probably, you will stop. What if you do not stop? Will someone catch you? Will there be any consequence of jumping the signal? Yes, there might be a policeman standing in the corner, who will charge a fine for jumping the signal. This disciplinary action brings discipline and motivates you to follow the traffic rules.

In a similar manner, you need to define rules of behavior at the workplace. The right behaviors should be reinforced with rewards and inappropriate behaviors should be discouraged by taking disciplinary actions.
