

4. Disciplinary Action

Articulate the actions taken to amend behavior of employees. You may primarily take three types of actions.

a. Warning

The warning is of two types:

i. Verbal Warning -

It is an informal way to communicate expectations. It involves a one-to-one meeting. Ensure that the minutes of the meeting (points discussed in the meeting) are documented. It is given for minor misdemeanors.

ii. Written Warning -

This is a formal document that is placed in the employee's personal file. It is given for several misdemeanours.

b. Suspension

It is used when a written warning does not yield the desired behavior or for correcting misconduct. During a suspension, employees are not allowed to work. It is generally unpaid. Suspension is also used when investigation is underway for a severe offense.

c. Termination

It is used as an extreme measure when severe misconduct is proven. The employee is terminated from the services of the organization without notice or pay in lieu of the notice period. It is also called summary dismissal.
